How do different variables impact a person's position in society? Pakistan is cultivated land societies where family are strongly supportive and most people are like to live with the extended family. In Pakistan, there are so many variables that would be very impactful on the person's position in the society that would be rise or down your status. Some of the variables are: ? Social Variables ? Economic Variables ? Pattern Variables ? Cultural Variables ? Political Variables These are the some of the variables that are very impactful on the person's positive in the society. And I can explain that how they can be impactful on the person's positive in the society and how these variables rise up or down the status of the people in the society as a following: Social Variables: Social Variables are the set of characteristics or feature or quality of the people. There are many factors that can helpful for the person to have a good position in front of the society. These factors are: 7 • Education • Income and wealth • Employment • Household composition • Experiences based on race or ethnic group These are factors that make a person respectful man in a society. Because if you have a good education, then you have well and good skills in the employment. Then your company would have you well because of well-educated and well skilled employee. When you have well paid income then you have good and well household composition. At Last, when you have experienced to live with different types of people of different race and ethnic groups, then you already know how to live with the people in the society. If you goes through these process to become a person, then people of the society would definitely give you are more than respect in the society. If you skip the first point of these process then people of the society doesn't give a respect in the society. As you can see that the first of the process is the education. If you didn't get a proper education then you would have trained well. Afterwards you didn't get a well job in a company. Due to that, company wouldn't give a paid well due to your well skills. Due to not getting well pay job, you could not have a well household composition. And if didn't know that how people react in the society from different races or ethnic group. Then people of that society didn't give a respect you in a society. Economic Variables: Economic Variables are the measurements to describe the units of the economic like GDP or Product Rates. Economic Variables can very impactful on the society by the consumer good service that would very impactful in the person's position. As you know that the common relationship in the economic variables is between price and demand. The relation between price and demand is an example of the positive interactions as well as connection between employee and consumer. An increase in demand will be the reason of the increase in the prices. This means that more consumer want it to buy and therefore they are willing to pay whatever it prices is. This means that the prices is good and the services of the products would be precisely increases when more demand would increase day by day. Whenever the demand of the product would decrease, that means lesser peoples want that product and when a demand of the product would be decreases, then a sellers must lower its prices so that the more people will buy that product and increase their demands of that product. This example would help us enough to know that the company's profit is depend upon the demand of the product. 8 If the demand of the product is increase, then owner of the company would get more and more profit and if the demand of the product is decrease, then owner of the company would get lesser and lesser profit. This would affect his or her position in the society. As his or her company would good amount of profit then he or she get a respectful position in the society because this society is a needy and only give respect to the rich people. As if his or her company would not get good amount of profit then he or she wouldn't a respectful position in the society because this society is a needy and only give respect to the rich people. Pattern Variables: Pattern Variables would defined as the reflect the properties of all the actions which could bring out the variable properties of these systems. Pattern variable is the bridge which required the gap between social action and social system. These pattern variables are: ? Universalism vs Particularism ? Performance vs Quality ? Affective neutrality vs Affectivity ? Specificity vs Diffuseness ? Self-Orientation vs Collective Orientation These pattern variable formation and layout is a system of interactions but however these system may require both by the relationship between social action and social system and by the internal working of the systems. These pattern variables may help you to build your character in the society. Because your character is the first impression in the society. You can improve your behavior by going through these process so that you can have a least a good impression in your society. Because your behavior shows that how your parents teach you to be well behaved in front of the society. Cultural Variable: Cultural Variable are the differences in the behavior, dresses, languages and outlook between the peoples from the differences societies. Although differences in the behavior, dresses, languages and outlook can cause miscommunication between the peoples from the different societies. The element of the cultural variable are: ? Religions ? Language ? Education ? Attitudes and Values ? Social Organization
