

PLAGIARISM SCAN REPORT

0%
Plagiarised

100%
Unique

Date	2020-05-14
-------------	------------

Words	840
--------------	-----

Characters	4706
-------------------	------

Content Checked For Plagiarism

Extreme wealth has many different scenarios. For example, as we can see Bill Gates, he is extremely wealthy at the cost of his own expense. He is a person who has donated a lot of money towards charities and positive causes. Meanwhile, if we compare him to a landlord who inherited all of his money from his ancestors and is cruel towards people of his area, extreme wealth can both have positive and negative impacts. The main idea behind this is basically how you decide to spend your money is. If you see someone with extreme wealth spending money towards a very positive and productive source, it is considered to be very beneficial and extreme wealth is not considered to be something negative at that point. 18 On the other hand, if a person only spends his extreme wealth on negative sources and has no positive impact towards anything, it is considered that extreme wealth is bad for an economy. So, it solely depends on the way the money is spent. It is then decided whether it has a positive impact or a negative impact. In conclusion, in the world we live in, no one is poor because of another. Most people's economic value is because of themselves. The way the economy works today has a very neutral approach. No one benefits off others and no has to face consequences because of others. On the other hand, extreme wealth is dependent on the person possessing it. It all depends on where you spend the money. It can become a problem in some cases and it can also be a blessing in some. It is also considered to be a social problem in some cases where money and land is inherited from ancestors and this power is used to oppress the poor of the land. This is a real problem in the society of Pakistan today as the culture of landlords has always been there from the beginning of Pakistan and is considered to be a very big social problem. Conclusion: In this report, you saw that there are so many situation that causes the chances of the increase of the class difference between two individual people in the society. As you can see that most of these causes create the class differences between only rich people and poor people. There are various way to overcome these problems which I have explained earlier. But I will mention few of them in the conclusion which are: ? Educating Poor People ? Knowledge them about their rights ? Overcome the selfness of the rich people ? Help the poor people when they need There are more solutions to the problem which was explained in the Main Context. Apart of the one problems, there are various problems which was also be mention in the above context. Like I already mention about that problem in the Main Context, I have already mention the solution of these problems in the Main Text. Although these problems are all over the world. As the good person of the society, we should come up and develop or create a well environment where each person of the society should know about their rights and we should not give the more priority to the rich people then poor people. Because we are creating the major gap of the class differences between rich people and poor people. By this, we creating an environment where the rich people afford everything and everyone respect them, but poor people doesn't aware of their rights and everyone disrespect them. 19 There are a lot of problems in the Pakistan. You take an example of the education institution in a Pakistan and these education institution are two types; one is private institution and other is the government institution. As you see that the frees of government institution is very low but their quality of teaching is very bad. But in the case of the private institution, their quality of teaching is very good but their fees is very high and high such as the fees would be the higher than the whole poor family income. If the poor family want to get their admission to the private institutions, then they can't afford the fees of the private institutions because their fees are out of their budget. If they get their admission to the government institution, then their quality of the teaching is very bad that the children of their family couldn't learn. This is the best example of the class difference between rich people and poor people. If they child of the poor family doesn't get the proper education, then they doesn't know about their rights. In the end, I want to say that you should not run behind the successful person. You should help the poor person which was a great need of help. If you help them, the class difference between rich people and poor people would be decreased and there would be a proper balance between rich people and poor people in the society.

Matched Source

No plagiarism found