

PLAGIARISM SCAN REPORT

Date 2020-05-14

Words 948

Characters 5606

Content Checked For Plagiarism

Can policies be designed to legislate away various forms of inequality? Why or why not? I think that policies can be designed to legislate away various forms of inequality. So my answer of this question is yes because if the inequality does increase in the society then the growth of the economy would be reduce. So these policies can the reduce the inequality so that the growth of the economy would be increase. These policies can do all the thing just to stop the inequality such as income inequality, education inequality, health inequality or rights inequality. 10 These policies which can reduce the inequality in the society: ? Taxation and Income Policy ? Housing Planning Policy ? Urban Planning Policy ? Education Policy ? Civil Right Law and Policy ? Health Policy ? Criminal Justice Policy These policies can help to reduce or remove the inequality in the society so that there would be equal rights and justice for everyone. Taxation and Income Policy: The trend of the income is one of the highest trend in the Pakistan because the workers such as labour did not get income from the six months. Even some more workers such as teachers or doctors etc does not get enough income to feed their family, spend on their health expense or give the fees of their children's schools. Some people also didn't pay the taxes to the government because their income taxes is very high according to their high income. This means that high income, higher he would pay a taxes to the government. This policy would help to these people who haven't given their rights who were working in the jobs. This policy would able help to the workers who want their income to be increase or who didn't get their income from six months. This policy also advice to the people to pay the taxes so that these taxes would help the government to stablished more in the country and the economy of the country will growth rapidly or they asked the government to reduces the taxes so that these people are agree to pay the taxes to the government. Housing Planning Policy: Housing expensive is the one of the significant concerns of the policy. Because the rent of the house increase years by years and the people living in the rent house is unable to give the so much rents to the owner of the Pakistan. Policy would help them with the help of the finical government who supports the house expense by these taxes. Although the finical government vouchers those people who doesn't have enough money to give the rent to the owner of the house or construction of the house. A great number of policies contributes money and welfare to the poor people. This includes the support of the federal government who supports to the poor families 11 Urban Planning Policy: Urban Planning is generally depend upon on the center government. These planning are to give the proper infrastructures and proper lifestyles to the peoples living in the urban area. There are so many issues in the urban planning. One of these issues are economic, jobs and workforce development. Local economic government can create more jobs opportunities but these jobs are not giving giving income what they have deserves. Local economic government can also do the investment in the improving and betterment of the local housing stock so that these development would effect on the housing scheme policy. These policy would help the local economic government to do more betterment in the urban area. If there is not a proper infrastructures and proper lifestyles in the urban area, then there would inequality for the urban area because urban area is known as infrastructures area and have a great living life styles for the people. Education Policy: Education plays an important role in the life of the people. Because education try to educate the people about their rights and telling the difference that what is wrong and what is right. Education policy should be made to check out that there would be an inequality in the education sector and should have to plan about these factor so that this policy should have overcome the inequality in the education sector. These factor are: ? Education Development ? Quality of the Education ? Education Fees and Cost ? Planning Techniques of Education System ? Admiration and Management of Education ? Evaluation of the Education System If Education policy would plan to improve these factors in the private institutions as well as in the government institutions. Both institutions have their own problem that create inequality in the society. Since in private institutions, there fees is so high that poor people can't afford. And government institutions, their Quality and Planning techniques of education is very poor. This policy would help the private as well as government institutions to overcome their problems so that inequality would be finished. Civil Right Law and Policy: Civil Rights is an equal social opportunities, rights and protection under the law of the country in view of the race, colors, religion and other characteristics. This policy should made to give the rights to the people. These rights are: 12 ? Right to Vote ? Right to Government Services ? Right to Public Education ? Right to use Public Facilities These rights are the fundamental factor to the democracy, where people of the country have an opportunities to decide to deny to the country should have given their civil rights or not. Civil rights law also guarantee to give their civil rights for the people who have been distinguish against on the basis of the race, colors or religious.

Matched Source

No plagiarism found